JULY 27th from 7:30

From Cairns via New York City and now is

Melbourne, Dan Bolton is a singer/songwriter/pianist with a unique sound. His songs are 21st Century standards, incorporating elements of jazz, pop and Latin American styles. His music reminiscent of George Gershwin, Cole Porter and Irving Berlin but with a modern twist.

Back by popular demand, Dan will be performing with Alex Price (woodwinds), Beau Jorgensen (drums) and Blake Lonie (bass). Dan will be featuring songs from his recently recorded album, 'Living To Regret It' along with a varied selection of original songs and jazz standards.

AUGUST 31st from 7:30

Together with Coojee Timms (drums) and JB Lewis (bass and guitar), Mojo's live performances are the stuff of legend.

Whether he's blowing the roof off with fat-toned harmonica or brandishing his trademark fiery guitar, Mojo prowls the stage - imploring, preaching, boasting.

With the kind of musical telepathy made possible only through many years of collaboration, these three guys work as one, creating a sound that's fresh yet steeped in tradition.

From 6:00 at each winter gig the EARLYBIRDS lay a solid foundation to getting circulations up to speed and warm.

Winter evenings encourage some quiet contemplation and I've been having a think about what we do, the music we seek out and why. The jazz label, a vast sweeping cover for an enormous range of music, can hide more than it reveals. In its space, between the formality of 'classical' composition, and the generally repetitive nature of pop music, and just about all other sub cultures, jazz explores and employs all human experience to delight and excite the senses.

The highly talented, creative musicians we invite to our gigs do just that. At one with their instruments they are free to follow some inner drive that takes them where it will and in the process the audience experiences all the subtlety, the power, the almost draining impact of these complex sounds. Sounds that somehow have colour, depth, texture. Sounds that can expose strong emotions even as they manifest or in revealing their origins. Add to that the multiplying effect from the interaction between these talented individuals and magic happens. For the audience the experience is much more than simply hearing. There is so much beyond admiring dexterity, technical skill. It is music that involves the listener at all levels stimulating memory of past events and places, prompting emotional response. That is why we are Tweed Valley Jazz and Blues and intend to stay so — with your ongoing support, with that of our community minded sponsors and, by no means least, that of the musicians, this talented breed of humans who also get pleasure from their own creativity.

TVJ&B and the Commonwealth Games Not only did our June feature band, (the Blue Skilletts of course), come to us via the Games, but stalwart members Jed and Jean Stone's piano company hired out the pianos for the venues. The regular companies declined because of concerns about the open air environments. Jed and Jean, made of sterner stuff, hired the pianos, picked them up afterwards (only slightly the worse for wear) and still made it in time to take up their key roles with the Earlybirds!
